Jamie's faith in Jesus Christ was the cornerstone of his life. He served the Lord faithfully through teaching Sunday school and talking to all who would listen about Jesus. He was a self-described “armchair theologian” and maintained a blog where he wrote about Christianity. An avid writer, he wrote several articles published by a local Sedalia magazine. Jamie loved fishing, country music, the Chicago Cubs and Kansas City Chiefs. He loved animals and formed a special bond with his pet chihuahua Maria. He was a proud member of St. Paul’s Lutheran Church in Sedalia.

“ Jamie was only 6 years old when he was granted a Disney World trip by The Dream Factory of Sedalia. I was blessed to be able to present his dream to him and the family. I remember how excited he was and how his smile just lit up the room. He wasn't in a wheelchair at that time but you could tell he was already having slight symptoms of what was yet to come. Although he spent the longest portion of his life in the wheelchair he didn't let that hamper his dreams. He accomplished great things in his short life. What a beautiful obituary detailing his life. We know he has gone on to heaven where he now walks and no longer has a need for a wheelchair and suffers no more pain. My heartfelt sympathies to Rebecca and Dean and the entire family. Thank you for allowing me to be a small part of your wonderful son's life. May your many beautiful memories of times spent together bring you great comfort in the coming days. God bless you. Linda J. Johnson, Sedalia Dream Factory
