“ I remember my mom telling me when we were very little we lived in a one bedroom apartment. When mom and dad got together he came over one day and told mom to get our stuff because we were moving. And he moved us into his house no questions asked. My dad accepted my brother and I as his own kids. He didn't have to but that was the kind of man he was. He has always been a great dad to us and I will always be thankful for him.

“ I always remember when I was growing up the first thing in the morning was pop in the bathroom clearing out his throat and getting ready in the morning. Best alarm clock you could ask for. And the house would smell like English leather.
